

The invention relates to removal of admixtures from waste gases. A method for removal of sulphur oxides from waste gas includes stages of contact of waste gases with fixed bed of solid adsorbent based on of vanadium pentoxide applied to the porous carrier, removal of the purified waste gases, regeneration of said adsorbent, which contains sulphur oxides.