

Appliance for treatment of wool includes means for solvent sputtering installed over level of solvent in tank and higher than fiber transported on infinite conveyor band. The invention relates to units for wool of animal origin treatment.