

The invention relates to the method of cutover of mobile subscribers in the mobile radio net with multitude sets of basic stations. These multitude sets are spacely placed by type of cellular system in the hierarchical cellular structure.