

The invention relates to the system and device for supply of sealing substance on the covers and plugs of tanks. The aim of the invention is the creation of new improved system of actuating and adjustment of sprayers, working only by means of electrically controlled actuating mechanisms.