

The invention relates to the medicine, namely gastroenterology and physiotherapy and may be used widely for the early rehabilitation of the patients with the viral hepatitis. The method comprises the combination of pelotherapy and procedures with galvanic current.