

A process of decomposition of nitrous oxide on the oxidation catalyst at high temperatures provides for the presence of atmospheric oxygen. The process of decomposition is conducted also in the presence of saturated hydrocarbons  $C_1 - C_6$  or their derivatives. The invention relates to the protection of air environment, methods of decomposition of nitrous oxide up to the harmless products and can be used in chemical industry.