

A method for producing vodka provides for filtration of water through activated carbon, softening of water by sulfonated coal, obtaining sorting by mixing water with alcohol, its filtration. After filtration of sorting into vodka additionally directly into vodka an inert sugar syrup is introduced, which consists of ascorbic or citric acids, sugar and water in mass relationship 0.8-1.2+26.7-40.0+58.0-38.7 respectively up to the alkalinity of vodka 1.2-2.0 ml 0.1 and solution HCl per 100 ml of vodka.