

A horizontal cistern for storage and transport of food liquids consists of two bottoms and a cowling with ridges made in the form of semi-rings and located in the lateral sections of cowling. The ridges are hermetically sealed, figured, they mirror reflect the surface of ridges or flat tapes, with formation of the segments of pipes connected by U-shaped sections of pipes.