

The method for cleansing of human skin in the case of psoriasis foresees the generation of sweat excretion by thermal action on the human body and application on the skin's affected areas of medicinal preparation after stopping of sweat excretion. The thermal action is carried out locally on the skin's affected areas or not locally on the human body, except a head. The mixture of such composition: fresh chicken albumen (20 – 30 mass %), bear's-garlic juice (7 – 10 mass %), bitter nightshade juice (3 – 5 mass %) and purified water (other), is used as a medicinal preparation