

The invention relates to the pharmaceutical preparations containing repellants, and can be use for pediculosis control. An antipediculosis agent contains benzyl benzoate, household or green soap and water. Additionally it contains a product of etherification of polyglycerol and stearinic acid.