

The invention relates to decorative cosmetology, in particular to mascara and a method for its production. The mascara contains glue, dextrin, toilet soap, beeswax, carbon-black and water. It additionally contains a pine colophony, odorant, ambrosia, and the bone glue and gelatin are used as glue.