

The invention relates to ferrous metallurgy, in particular to the steel-melting furnace. A method includes charging in bath of slag-forming materials, light-weight and heavy-weight scrap steel, pouring of fluid cast-iron, subsequent melting, finishing and melt tapping.