

The invention relates to ferrous metallurgy, in particular, to the methods, for steel smelting in high-performance steel-smelting hearth devices. A method includes charging and heating of scrap-metal with gas-oxygen flame, pouring of cast-iron and blowing of melt with oxygen.