

The invention relates to mining and is intended for breakage and grinding rocks with blast at pits. The method includes drilling of rows of vertical wells, formation of elongated charges of explosive substance there and ignition.