

The invention can be used in ferrous metallurgy and in particular in production of reinforced steel. A method includes blank austenitization, drawing in grooves and accelerated cooling of hot-rolled breakdown.