

The invention relates to devices for the electrolysis of unflow electrolyte. A device contains anode and cathode, fixed on the basis with the narrowing up air gap variable on a height. A cathode is set under an angle to the basis so, that its surface, which is turned to the anode is oriented up.