

The invention relates to area of metallurgy, in particular to methods for hot repair of refractory brickwork of heating furnaces and can be used in any other area of industry where repair of damaged lining is needed. Mix includes refractory component, diabase powder, powders of aluminum and silicon.