

The invention relates to metal-forming process, in particular to pipe-rolling production and can be used at reconstruction of drives of rolls of pipe cold rolling mill. A drive contains set on roll necks driven and driving gears interacting with laths installed in the mill bed and having a mechanism for longitudinal displacement thereof.