

The invention relates to a process for preparation of polyurethanes in solution of low-polarity volatile solvents used for preparation of glue compositions.

A process is implemented by the interaction of toluylenediisocyanate and complex hydroxyl-containing polyester in the presence of a catalyst of amine type in ethylacetate medium.