

Invention relates to the field of metallurgy, mainly to continuous teeming of steel, and it can be used for teeming of metal into the casting molds.

Device contains sliding shutter and fireproof container with porous insert fixed on its lower plate, in upper part of which are executed the channels for gas supply.