

The proposed invention relates to agriculture, namely to the equipment for aero-water growing plants. An apparatus contains a horizontally located vegetative balloon with openings in its upper part and a drainage opening communicated through a pipeline with an inlet chamber of drainage valve.