

The method for reproduction of beet hybrids plants involves the separate growing of planting root of different lines, growing of paternal components of crossing, obtaining of hybrid seeds and commercial root. On the stage of superelite the hybrid seeds are obtained by the joint growing of paternal components, planting root are cultivated, typical for a hybrid plants are selected, planted and reproduced by the tissue culture, using parts of growing-points. The seedlings are cultivated and planted out in the field for the obtaining of commercial root.