

The invention relates to large-size electrical machines in particular to turbo-generators.

The stator comprises a laminated core, pressure flanges, the rib-case where the punching are laminated, anchor nut-tie rods, the ribs of the case are made as hollow and there are tie rods in them made of tensile strength steel.