

The invention relates to mechanical processing by pressure of sheet material. A method includes transverse bending of billet in the rolls and its twisting; in this case the amount of twisting strain is equal to the amount of elastic deformation of the material of pipes. In the first inter-pass section the billet is twisted around concave edge and simultaneously the transverse compressive force is applied from the side of convex edge.