

The invention relates to machine-tool industry. A machine contains a basis, installed thereon a spindle unit of a tool and head and tail stocks with corresponding spindles, located on the spindles of stocks fastening units of a crankshaft with center-displacers, fastened on the head stock mechanism of angular fixing of the crankshaft and located on the tail stock device for axial displacement of spindle of the latter.