

The invention relates to the medical equipment and regards the technology of non-traumatic needle making. A method comprises coiling of wire on mandrel and its stretching, formation of groove by the penetration of abrasive disk in each wire coil, sharpening of two needles edges on each coil by the penetration of abrasive disk between the wire coils after the mandrel turnover, cutting of each wire coil on two needles.