

A granulator for polymer melt contains a drawhole with horizontal row of holes connected with a device of melt feeding, a cutting device in the form of a rotor with radial knives, which rotation axis is parallel to working surface of the drawhole, and a device for wetting the rotor with nozzles for supply of wetting fluid, oriented toward the direction of the rotor rotation.