

The invention relates to the field of ferrous metallurgy. A method includes laying of plating and intermediate billets in packet, heating and plastic deformation of assembled packet. As intermediate billet an etched billet of carbon steel with a thickness equal to 2... 4 thickness of plating billets is used, and separating coating is applied on the external surface of the plating billets.