

The invention relates to production of sheet and rolled glass-reinforced plastics. A binding material contains carbamide-formaldehyde resin and modified additive. As modified additive it contains technical lignosulphonates.