

The invention relates to the chemical industry and can be used in the ecology, sanitation, medicine, veterinary science. A method includes co-precipitation of the reagents, which contain halogen derivatives of antimony, with phosphates and silicates of alkali metals or their mixture, chlorides, alkoxides of phosphorus and silicon or their mixture, maintaining for formation of copolymers of oxides, their washing and drying of end products.