

A device for preparation of fodders contains a crusher, which consists of a housing, roller crushers, a bunker of supply, a branch pipe for removal of product and sealing elements. Shafts have involute teeth, and housing and lateral covers seal the teeth of shafts forming closed chambers with small clearances between these elements.