

The invention relates to agricultural engineering, in particular to the top harvesters cutting tops prior to removal of roots from soil. A top harvester includes rotary working tools with a vertical axis of rotation, which surface is made screw-shaped, a jacket and a device for tops unloading.