

The invention relates to the fire-extinguishing. The fire-extinguisher contains the cylindrical housing with the cover and the pipe-union for the consumed fire-extinguishing material, the sprayer of the powder, the gas generator with the actuation system at the top, and the cylindrical chamber with the outlet opening for the producer gases.