

The invention relates to a method for treatment of mainly functional disorders, such as dyskinesia, vegetovascular abnormalities, hormonal abnormality, paresises, gastric or duodenum ulcers, osteochondropathies and similar to them diseases, tissue damage, including knife and gunshot wounds. A method consists in the determination of biologically active points, the action on which potentially can be caused of medicinal effect.