

The invention relates to meat industry, in particular to sausage production and can be used in the sausage units of meat-processing factory for filling sleeved casings with mince. An arrangement includes a housing with an eccentrical working chamber, a rotor installed therein, a drive of rotor, a cover of the working chamber with a loading funnel and a supplying element installed therein.