

The invention relates to telescopic supports of earth-moving machines used for provision of stability of machines at operation with different types of removable equipment. The support unit includes standpipe, power hydro-cylinder and shoe, at that the standpipe is equipped with two holders.