

The invention relates to plants for acetylene production by hydrocarbon pyrolysis and separation of pyrolysis gas with preferential solvent, in particular at incomplete burning of hydrocarbons. The plant is additionally provided with arranged in tandem circulation pump and apparatus filled with ion resin, which output is connected to the mixed condensate tank. The input of circulation pump is connected to the line of mixed condensate.