

An invention relates to the building materials, namely to the processes for the preparation of additives for heavy and light concrete mixtures, mortars, and also for dry concrete and building mortars.
The process comprises mixing of water solution of technical lignosulphonates with the spent solution of desulphurization of coke gas works base on sodium thiosulphate.