

The invention relates to agricultural engineering, in particular to the top gathering machines, cutting tops prior to removal of roots from earth. A top gathering machine includes installed in a jacket for guiding tops drive rotary elements with a vertical axis of rotation, which work surface is made screw-shaped.