

The digital optoelectronic processor of multilevel images comprises two storage units. It comprises in addition two scenic type-storage elements and an arithmetic and logic unit including an adder, three inverse optical controlled transparents and a light union unit.

The invention relates to computer engineering and can be used for parallel arithmetical-logical processing of multilevel images by space-continuous bit cuts