

Device for measurement of wear of contact wire. The device has support roller intended for interaction with not worn surface of contact wire that is kinematically connected to guide of mechanism of its displacement, lever, cam.