

The invention relates to the devices of small-scale mechanization, in particular hand-operated hoisting machines. A hoist includes a housing equipped with suspension arrangements with a driving shaft installed therein, a drum with a flexible traction device installed on the shaft and a friction brake.