

The invention relates to power industry namely to insulators of external high-voltage equipment. The suspended high-voltage insulator has a rod, an insulator cap and a finned disk-shaped insulating piece. The upper surface of the insulating piece has concentric ribs with passes.