

An invention relates to mechanization production of phosphorus-containing fertilizers (diammonium phosphate, ammophos and others).

The installation comprises three reactors, fixed successively and connected with each other, joined with acid collector and with collector of absorption solutions, cleaning unit of exit gases from a reactor and unit of granulation dryer, equipped with burner and connected by pipeline with the last reactor.