

The invention relates to the field of filtering of dust-laden gases, smokes, fogs for separation of the drops of liquid, for example oils from gases, and can be used for removal of soot from exhaust gases, drops of oil, and also waste gas in metallurgical, chemical industry and power engineering, furthermore, material can be used for removal of suspensions from waters, emulsions etc. A filtering material contains layers of basaltic fibers.