

The invention relates to the dyes for wood of natural origin, in particular to the processes for preparation of humic dyes.

The method comprises treatment of brown lignite by aqueous solution of sodium hydrate at heating and mixing and subsequent separation of desired product from the reaction mass.