

The invention relates to the medical equipment. The device contains the laser, the light-guide, the timer, the programmable control unit, the electronic shutter, the switch of the beam direction with the moving mirror, the unit for the gradual adjustment of the beam diameter, the positioner, the discrete output switch with three filters possessing the different transmittance coefficients, two-coordinate optical deflector with two movable units containing the bases with the mirrors.