

The invention relates to area of machines intended for implementation of earth-moving and loading operations, in particular to machines of type pf single-bucket hydraulic excavators. Bearing frame includes long beams with elements for fixation of bearing frame on tractor, cross beam welded to inner sides of back ends of long beams, support head welded to cross beam, with bush sockets for installation of rotary column of executive equipment and hydro-units of its control, and welded holders for installation of hydro-controlled outriggers.