

The invention relates to beneficiation of minerals and can be used in metallurgical, coal, energy and other industry. A disk vacuum-filter contains a bath, a rotary hollow cellular shaft with movable washers, fastened on its ends, and with internal longitudinal channels.