

The proposed technical decision relates to the field of musical instruments, particularly to the construction of the keys.

The key board contains the row of keys with the elements for the mounting to the actuating device of reproduction. The keys of the first row are uneven, and the keys of the second row have cross-like form, the side branches of which enter the gutters and mortices, formed in the keys of uneven row, where their height exceeds the height of the smallest section of the keys of the first row.
